

Questions and Answers to the 2018 November YRD Line

Questions

1. How has your local church provided or participated in educational programs that bring people together to study some aspect of Congregational life or history?
2. Would your local church consider hosting a Congregational Symposium in the future?
3. What about Congregationalism would you like to explore, personally or in a larger group, in a deeper way?

Answers

• How has your local church provided or participated in educational programs that bring people together to study some aspect of Congregational life or history?

Rev. Gierke holds a monthly "Congregational Cafe" following our service to discuss various aspects of Congregationalism.

I moderate a weekly study group. We are currently studying covenants in the Bible and have a continuing discussion revolving around our own church covenant.

• Would your local church consider hosting a Congregational Symposium in the future?

Possibly. Our church council could consider this.

• What about Congregationalism would you like to explore, personally or in a larger group, in a deeper way?

I have read and learned a great deal about Congregationalism as part of the lay ministry program. Once our study group has completed our study of the covenants, we will determine what the group members would like to study next.

Maggi Payne
First Congregational Church
Cape Coral, Florida