

YRD Line August 2018 Questions and Answers

Questions:

This month, the NACCC Development Department wants to know:

1. After reading the Case for Support, what information did you find most interesting?
2. Do you have a better understanding of the NACCC after reading the Case for Support? And if so, how do you plan to communicate information you have learned to others in your Congregation?
3. Does your church have a story they would be willing to share which could be incorporated into the Case for Support?

Answers:

The Case for Support will be a helpful document for us to use as a reference to explain the work of the NACCC for the local church. I found the description of the councils most helpful.

Emily Miller Todd - FCC, Anaheim, CA

1. After reading Case for Support, the Providence Fund was new to me. Additionally the description of the Missions Connection and OGHS gives further evidence of how our annual contribution is used.

2. I do have a better understanding and will be forwarding the document to our church leadership. 3. The only thing I can think of is this documents codifies in one place all the services the National has available to our church.

Jerry Zwaga - Community Congregational Christian Church of Citrus Springs, FL

1--All of the info in the Case for Support was great. A good read for our boards and committees to share with the Congregation.

2--yes. I gave a copy to Deacons and Trustees to share with their members.

3--We have been blessed by the help of NACCC on numerous occasions: When we were searching for ministers, when we had issues with a former minister, our church received a John Richard grant for our kids to put on the musical "Godspell", the Annual meetings are awesome. We always bring back lots of info for our church. THANK YOU!!!

Marcia Cifaldo - Second Congregational Church, Warren, ME

It seems the usual time for us to go to NACCC for help is when we need a new pastor.

The last time almost 2 years ago, we asked but you weren't able to help us.

We did find one by going to seminaries, and got one soon to be graduating.

He has since graduated and we are pleased with him.

So it's difficult for me to keep pushing NACCC.

We do support some of the missions you suggest, etc.

But thanks for all you do.

Keep up the good work.
