

NACC Congregational Churches Philippines

The NACC-Congregational Churches Philippines is a church planting and church-edifying ministry. Started by the Rev. Ernanie Castillo and wife, Awit, in the early 1990s, it is the first and distinct Congregational Way bearer since the Congregationalists left the Philippines in early 1900s.

This mission is a "Faith Ministry", and has for its motto: "Faith honors God and God honors Faith." With 22 growing and vibrant churches, including 3 tribal churches, and 3 church-run schools, sponsorship of more than 100 children, and a growing number of serving youth, God has proven his faithfulness, despite the limited resources.

All of the churches have faithful pastors who are hard-working despite being underpaid. One pastor converted a communist party member who's now pastoring an urban poor community. Two elders, unjustly imprisoned due to dirty politics, are spreading the gospel in jail. One pastor, a former student leader during his bible college years, is now a very productive leader of our church. He declined high-paying offers from other churches because of his love for our people. Another pastor, a fisherman by trade, gave his own money to aid his worker's family who were starving.

This mission has a big project to help train youth to take on the leadership in the future and enable self-sustainability. By faith, they are determined to put up a camp site and retreat center. Besides their own use, the facilities can be rented to other churches and groups. This will help further the "Congregational Way" and carry on what God has been doing through NACC. The more than 3,000 sq. meter land purchased in a tourist favorite city is waiting to realize this vision.

NACC Congregational Churches Philippines

The NACC-Congregational Churches Philippines is a church planting and church-edifying ministry. Started by the Rev. Ernanie Castillo and wife, Awit, in the early 1990s, it is the first and distinct Congregational Way bearer since the Congregationalists left the Philippines in early 1900s.

This mission is a "Faith Ministry", and has for its motto: "Faith honors God and God honors Faith." With 22 growing and vibrant churches, including 3 tribal churches, and 3 church-run schools, sponsorship of more than 100 children, and a growing number of serving youth, God has proven his faithfulness, despite the limited resources.

All of the churches have faithful pastors who are hard-working despite being underpaid. One pastor converted a communist party member who's now pastoring an urban poor community. Two elders, unjustly imprisoned due to dirty politics, are spreading the gospel in jail. One pastor, a former student leader during his bible college years, is now a very productive leader of our church. He declined high-paying offers from other churches because of his love for our people. Another pastor, a fisherman by trade, gave his own money to aid his worker's family who were starving.

This mission has a big project to help train youth to take on the leadership in the future and enable self-sustainability. By faith, they are determined to put up a camp site and retreat center. Besides their own use, the facilities can be rented to other churches and groups. This will help further the "Congregational Way" and carry on what God has been doing through NACC. The more than 3,000 sq. meter land purchased in a tourist favorite city is waiting to realize this vision.

Nannie baptizes more than 30 people, with pastors assisting him. The waves are strong as a typhoon just left the Zambales Province.

NACC pastors and youth jointly pray for and dedicate the land where a camp site will be built.

Nannie baptizes more than 30 people, with pastors assisting him. The waves are strong as a typhoon just left the Zambales Province.

NACC pastors and youth jointly pray for and dedicate the land where a camp site will be built.

Awit & Nannie congratulate a preschool graduate in our school in a resettlement area.

“Face the Book” Campers

Awit & Nannie congratulate a preschool graduate in our school in a resettlement area.

“Face the Book” Campers

Symphony John (NACC’s Director) addresses the needs and issues of the youth at this gathering: Face the BOOK camp which was attended by more than 100 youth.

Symphony John (NACC’s Director) addresses the needs and issues of the youth at this gathering: Face the BOOK camp which was attended by more than 100 youth.

