

The Congregationalist Campaign

Our Goal

To strengthen The Congregationalist's endowment and create a financially self-sustaining magazine.

Why Now

Rising publishing costs and an evolving media landscape make a stable endowment critical to ensuring the magazine continues.

Why It Matters

The Congregationalist is more than a magazine - it's a ministry of connection, education, and inspiration.

Why Care

Your support preserves stories, theology, and traditions that will guide and inspire long after we're gone.

Help Us Sustain a Voice That Connects, Inspires, and Endures

For over a century, The Congregationalist magazine has connected generations of Congregational Christians through stories, insights, and a shared identity rooted in faith, freedom, and fellowship. Now, we're launching a bold campaign to secure its future - and we want you to be part of it.

Your Support Makes All the Difference

Donors to The Congregationalist Campaign are helping sustain a spiritual, educational, and historical legacy.

Interested in learning more or giving? Follow the QR code above, or contact NACCC Director of Development Peggy Griffith at pgriffith@nacc.org.